Business District Size, Parking Top CBD Discussions

By Lisa Waterman

Continued emphasis on downtown parking problems and the size of the Central Business District captured the attention of the 33 residents and businessmen who attended the second CBD forum conducted by the Planning Board last Wednesday night.

Planners are conducting the idea exchange in anticipation of preparing a draft of proposals to be presented to the annual town meeting.

"Quality, not quantity, is sought to reinforce Andover's healthy downtown business district," Principal Planner Nancy K. Jeton said.

Jeton outlined the board's priliminary findings on the mix and uses of downtown property, size and shape of the general business buffer zone, a proposed multi-family buffer zone and outlying commercial areas and parking.

There is a low vacancy rate and stiff competition for commercial space in the C.B.D., according to Jeton.

"We are at a critical juncture to reinforce Andover's healthy business district. We want to keep it small and make it look good." Jeton said.

The goals of the planning board are to reinforce an efficient and compact C.B.D. and encourage a compact business district, according to Jeton.

Data from surveys composed in the 1960s point to the same concerns about the C.B.D., according to Jeton.

A survey in 1982 cited a parking deficiency of 400 parking spaces. In 1985, the parking deficiency was 300 spaces, according to a planning board survey.

Parking problems and their solutions will not be clearly defined until results from the rehabilitated parking lots behind Old Town Hall and the Old Purity Supreme parking lots, along with the new perspective gained from the results of the two-hour parking meters installed in Old Andover Village, are examined, according to Jeton.

Parking stickers for residents, creation of new parking lots and the construction of a three-deck parking garage located in the area Main Street Municipal Parking lot were some of the ideas thrown out in the forum by the Planning Board and the residents.

"Is it the town's or the local businesses responsiability to supply parking," Margaret Bradshaw, planning board chairman, asked the audience. "The reality is that the business community cannot afford to supply space for parking," Joseph Doherty Jr., a Bartlett Street realtor, told the board. "It would also be hard to reach a consensus among local businessmen as to where it should be located."

All-day parking by Boston commuters was a major problem expressed by residents who attended the forum.

Shuttle buses to satellite lots away from the downtown area and condominium parking spaces for businesses and additional bus stops for the estimated 50 Boston commuters, were suggestions put

Andover Railroading

By Virginia Lopez Begg

The crowd murmered excitedly. Men squinted and peered into the distance. Children darted about, squealing, until some shouted "Quiet! Here it comes!" The low and far-away rumbling became louder and closer. The crowd dropped back, suddenly nervous. It was June 1835. The railroad had come to Andover.

This scene, with many others, will be vividly described in a program of slides and narrative entitled "Andover Railroading" to be presented by Frank Haggerty at the Andover Historical Society, 97 Main St., Sunday, Nov. 3, at 2 p.m. Seating is limited.

The presentation will retrace the route of the long-vanished Andover-Wilmington railroad as it appears today and will describe the role and operation of the railroad from its beginnings in the 1830s until it was replaced in 1847 by the Boston and Maine Railroad. The Boston and Maine will be shown in numerous slides and its history in Andover recounted, covering the period 1847-1947.

Much of the history of America is the history of railroading. Railroads were a technological advance which thrilled an earlier generation of Americans, even as this country's achievements in space have absorbed us in recent decades.

The slides and commentary by Haggerty illustrate both of these railroad routes and will provide a fascinating glimpse into Andover's role in the great era of railroads.

The Andover Historical Society is a non-profit, educational institution open to members and the public. For information on open hours, tours, educational program or membership, call the society office Monday through Friday between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

The first magazine for children was published in 1751. Directed solely toward children, it was appropriately small in size—measuring only four inches by two and a half inches.

Paintings by Rose Coffin will be on exhibit at the Salem State College Library throughout October.

Legislative Deadline Approaching

Legislative proposals intended for consideration by the 1986 session of the General Court must be filed with the Clerk of the House or Senate by Wednesday, Nov. 6, Rep. Sue Tucker said recently.

"Under the rules of the House and Senate, measures must be filed by the first Wednesday of November," Rep. Tucker said. "Constituents who have matters which they believe ought to be considered by the Legislature should contact my office as soon as possible." She may be reached at 722-2070 or in Room 473G, State House, Boston, Mass. 02133.

Rept. Tucker noted that a citizen's right to initiate legislation, the so-called "Right of Free Petition," is a unique feature of the Massachusetts law-making process. "We are the only state in the Union providing for this direct form of citizen input," she said. "The legislation must be given a public hearing and be acted upon, acording to our rules and tradition."

According to Rep. Tucker, several excellent ideas for legislation have been brought to her attention by Andover residents. For example, a bill to control computerized telephone sales calls is moving through the legislative process as a result of citizen interest.

In 1984, more than 9,000 bills were filed for action in the 1985 session and only a few hundred will be signed into law. "Even though most bills are not enacted, they provide a focal point and vehicle for legislative and public attention to a problem," Rep. Tucker stated. "Sometimes that attention leads to creative solutions which do not require actual legislation."

The school bus will leave Andover at 8 a.m. and will include a stop at the Vanity Fair outlets as well as the heart of Fall River's factory outlet district. Return to town is scheduled for 6 p.m. Wear walking shoes.

The November 17 Museum of Fine Arts' exhibit on Renoir, the French impressionist, easily filled two buses before mid-September. A waiting list is being compiled in the event of any possible cancellations. The department has obtained additional tickets for a Sunday, Dec. 8, 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. showing. Registrations are being accepted at the Bartlet Street office.

The exhibition is the first American tour of Pierre Auguste Renoir's work since a Chicago showing in 1973. The exhibition will feature 100 early paintings, including "The Dance at Bougival" from the MFA's own collection, "La Grenoviller" from the National Museum of Stockholm, Sweden, and "The Pont Neuf" from the National Gallery of Art in Washington.

A special family trip will run Saturday, Nov. 2, to Le Grand David and His Spectacular Magic Company-In Concert in Beverly. The historic Larcom Theatre comes to life with an all-new production of illusion, music, dance and comedy, staged by Marco the Magi.

The bus will leave at 12:15 p.m. and return at 5 p.m. Advance registration is required. All DCS bus trips leave from the rear of the Town Offices Building.

The DCS is also planning to participate in the First Night festivities in Boston on New Year's Eve.

About Our People

OCTOBER 24, 1985

Budding artist Kramer O'Neill may be getting a critique from brother Kelly as he works on a promotional poster for the school PTO.

The Politics Of Pushing Posters

By S.K. O'Neil

In the beginning there was the committee.

A P.T.O. publicity committee, one of those things you find yourself chairing because you walked out of the meeting early. Or because, like me, you have a chronic inability to say "no."

Which is why I found myself making posters for the P.T.O. dance when the boys got home from school.

Making posters involves all kinds of politics. To begin with, there's internal politics. My son, Kramer, a budding artist of sorts, realized what I was doing and immediately demanded to be allowed to make a poster.

It seemed a good idea. His school, after all, needed a poster in the office. So I yielded a piece of posterboard and a few markers.

Kelly, at six, is no slouch when it comes to democracy and equality. He, too, lobbied to make a poster.

Kelly's school didn't need a poster; Kelly's artwork, though delightful (hey, I'm his mother!), is sometimes a little hard for the layman to interpret. But, Kelly had a failsafe trump card, guaranteed to tip the scales of negotiation in his favor: he burst into tears.

So, he made a poster, too.

I examined Kramer's finished product, rendered with that fanatic devotion to detail that makes me want to strangle him when it spills over into other reams of his life, and told him it would look terrific hanging in his school office.

His face fell; he looked as if I'd disowned him.

"Okay, so I'll hang it downtown." I conceded.

He wanted it in Demoulas. I had already placed one there. We negotiated; 15 minutes later, we agreed upon Barcelos.

Of course, Kelly didn't want to get stuck with Kramer's school either. We convened a second summit; Kelly got the hardware store.

Having cleared the internal politics, I was free to attack the larger political picture.

As in advertising and real estate, location in poster-posting is everything. Not every store does posters; there are only so many windows available. You have to find them.

Some store owners consider your request with a speculative air, as if weighing your worth as a customer versus the value of their window space.

Some are very cooperative. They even provide the tape.

One drug store I tried required a sort of presidential waiver. The cashier, a mere flunky, couldn't give me permission. The pharmacist, only an evening pharmacist, was not empowered to give me the corner I wanted, even when I offered to remove another outdated poster to accommodate mine. He said I had to come back in the morning to talk to the morning pharmacist.

But, I didn't. I hate dealing with bureaucracies.

Then there's the location on the window itself, the pecking order of importance, your cause versus all the others out there in the non-profit sector. I wanted maximum exposure, of course. That's why, when the owner of Barcelos, a very nice man who happened to be working the checkout when I came in, gave me a corner of his side window, I was a little disappointed. "Do you have some tape I can use?" I asked.

He paused—he'd been taking change and working the register with his right hand as he bagged three pounds of potatoes with his left. "Not on me."

"Uh, I guess that was a little presumptuous," I mumbled as I left to buy tape.

I had just dislodged the only outdated poster in the entire side window when I noticed the harried-looking housewife-type dragging the rambunctious two-year-old. Under her arm she carried—you guessed it—a large poster.

It would fit beautifully into the spot I'd just cleared.

In a frenzy of haste, I ripped off some tape and slapped Kramer's work of art in the vacant spot. Charity in poster policits is for wimps. As I said, there are only so many windows in this tough old world of ours.

And this one's mine, baby!

Andover High Pep Rally

As part of Homecoming Weekend, Andover High School held their traditional pep rally Friday, the night before the traditional homecoming football game. Better than half the Dunn gym was filled with students, teachers, parents and dedicated Warrior fans, eager to show support to the football team as well as other Warrior athletic teams. The combination of the band, football and soccer cheerleading squads, Andover Indians, speechmakers and fans full of spirit provided plenty of energy to keep the rally going. Photos clockwise from upper left: Master of ceremonies, Mark Marmer, addresses the crowd; Veteran fan of the Golden Warriors, John Garabedian (No.1), introduces the tri-captains, from left,, Tim Perry, quarterback, Larry Aiello, guard, and Joe Jurek, guard, as assistant coach, Bill Vickers, looks on; Football cheerleader, Kerry Walsh gives a cheer; Spokesmen for the Trenchcoat team, better known as the A.H.S. soccer team, Barry Tucker, Capt. Dave Bartle and First Sergeant Bob Pothier, pledge their support; The soccer team with an 11-1-2 record, cheer from the stands.

Western Roundup

By Meg McConville

West Junior High School is off to a great start for their 1985-86 academic year. Student government officers were elected and installed during the week of September 23: Katie O'Sullivan, president; Lindsay McCracken, ninth grade vice president; Tommy DeBenedictis, eighth grade vice president; Toti Ezpeleta, seventh grade vice president; Meg McConville, secretary;, and Taryn Markey, treasurer.

West has a new system for homeroom representatives. Instead of a president, vice president, secretary and treasurer from each home room, there will simply be a representative and an alternate. The student government is superviesed by John Darrin, Sandra Lunt and Ken Maglio.

A dance to raise money for a new weight room was the first student government activity. More than 300 students attended and additional donations were made by parents. The dance was a huge success and West will soon have a new weight room.

West has again established excellent sports teams. The boys' soccer team, coached by David Kalpin and led by co-captains Matt Pothier, Garrett Moss and John Mattola, is a team West is very proud of with a 3-4-1 record.

The girls' soccer team has had a successful season so far and are hoping for an undefeated record. They have a good start with a 5-0-1 record. The team is coached by Theresa McNalley and led by co-captains Krissie Carothers, Cara Workman and Shaleen Cassilly.

The field hockey team, coached by Miss Lunt and led by co-captains Jackie Kupa and Corey McGinley, has started off the season with a great effort. The team is made up of girls with a lot of dedication and spirit and we wish them good luck.

The freshman footall team has started their season strong with a 3-1 record. The team is coached by Mr. Maglio. Upcoming games include Tewksbury, Billerica, Lawrence and Methuen.

The West cheerleaders are cheering on the football team. The team is coached by Mrs. Markey and the captains are Taryn Markey and Keirin Gievins.

Our main emphasis for the coming school year is to promote school spirit and community involvement. President Katie O'Sullivan plans to again assist the Neighbors in Need program. With the whole school working together, we hope to exceed last year's donation. West is off to a great start to what should be a great school year.

Andover Band In Competition

Andover High Notes

By Amanda Kelly

"Students helping other students" was the main focus of the October 11 Student Leadership Workshop at West Parish Church, Andover. The meeting was organized by Wendy Palmer, Andover High School psychologist, and Mike Marcoux, school drug and alcohol counselor. The Discipline Advisory Board and representatives from the senior, junior and sophomre student governments attended.

The Discipline Advisory Board (DAB) is a group of students that meet once a week and talk with students who are disciplinary problems. The board discusses each case and decides what measures can be taken to help the student adjust to high school routine. Once a decision is made, the board writes up a contract that contains guidelines for the student. The contract is then reviewed and approved by Mrs. Mary Jennings, principal.

The student government consists of sophomore, junior and senior class officers and five senators from each grade. It is in charge of raising funds for social events and planning "happenings" for the student body.

The workshop began with a welcoming speech by Mrs. Jennings. She mentioned her hope that the faculty and students would work closely together. After a few tips on public speaking from Bob King, senior class advisor, the DAB and student government separated and met with their faculty leaders.

Students learned about various aspects of their leadership roles during the morning. The afternoon ended with a fascinating lecture by George Perry and John Bynoe from the department of education on students' rights. They fielded questions from members of the audience on the fairness of some school rules and discussed ideas and procedures that could help the student government revise the rules.

The group, led by David Duncan from the Hospice of Home Health Foundation VNA, which serves the Lawrence-Haverhill metro area, and Carol Beattie, R.N., from Dana Farber Cancer Institute, is open to everyone. For more information, call Duncan.

On Tour

Tim Dempsey, assistant director of college counseling at Phillips Academy, Andover, was one of 40 guidance counselors and college advisors from high schools in New England, New Jersey and Pennsylvania who participated in the second annual Finger Lakes Tour. The counselors arrived at the Wells College campus in Aurora, N.Y., on Sunday, Oct. 6, and visited Wells, Ithaca College, Cornell University and Hobart and William Smith colleges. Each college offered a tour and introductory program.

The counselors then went on to the national meeting of the National Association of College Admissions Counselors in Cincinnati.

BABY TALK

by Jack Resnick

A sleepy baby should be allowed to stay sleepy. Babies do not appreciate being fussed over. You can always change a diaper later and rearrange his covers after he/she is sound asleep. Never use a pillow under the baby's head. On a firm flat mattress he can turn his head easily from one cheek to the other for clear breathing space. Even though the crib mattress is moisture-proof, constant wetting will do it no good. The mattress should be topped with a waterproof sheet, preferably the kind that's flannelized on both sides, which keeps it from slipping and allows some air to circulate. Check your baby a few times during sleep.

New Exhibits At Gallery

Two new exhibitions opened Friday, Oct. 18, at the Addison Gallery of American Art on the Phillips Academy Andover campus: "Odyssey of a Late Pre-Raphaelite" by Boston artist Paul Laffoley and works by artist/teachers on leave from the academy 1984-85.

Laffoley's work includes 13 major paintings plus eight prints and drawings. He explains that his paintings are about "illustrating philosophy" and he attempts to "link the memory of the past with the anticipation of the future by means of a transdisciplinary process in the present." Initially appearing to be mystical diagrams, the paintings integrate visual and veral symbols focusing on a particular philosophic theme or historical entity such as the "Divine Comedy" which visually and symbolically encapsulate Dante's work.

McCarthy's collages, loosely derived from traditional quilt design, combine media-lifted imagery with starkly geometric shapes and softly drawn calligraphic plant forms. Her books vary from assemblages of handmade paper sheets to complex multimedia narratives combining writing, drawing, printlifts, xeroxing and photography. McCarthy teaches photography and visual studies at the academy.

Spatz-Rabinowitz, who has frequently designed sets for theatre producer Peter Sellars (Andover alumnus class of 1975), presents the evolving design for the sets of Handel's "Julius Caesar" as staged in July 1985 at SUNY, Purchase, N.Y., and directed by Sellars. Beginning with a tiny, rough sketch provided by the director, she describes the evolution of the process of researching, drawing and, finally, designing the sets and physical accoutrements for the opera. Her presentation is summarized in a projectin environment where slides of the actual production are projected in combination with a recorded sound track from the opera. Spatz-Rabonowitz teachers painting and visual studies.

Wise, photographer, editor and critic, has been working on a series of portraits of American writers and thinkers since 1981. He has criss-crossed the United States, capturing some 500 poets, novelists, philosophers, scientists, psychologists and playwrights in his lens. Wise has selected the most recent work in the series for this exhibition and includes portraits of Robet Penn Warren, Joseph Brodsky, Joyce Carol Oates and Ann Beattie. He is dean of faculty and teaches English.

From a series of paintings entitled "Clearstory Squares," Cook is exhibiting a 36 foot-long painting entitled "Lawrence-Boston Composite." Comprised of six, three-part "Clearstory Squares" (each of which owns a singular congruent mode), the large composite consists of a reassemblage of 18 basic 8'x2' modular units. Cook is the director of the Addison Gallery of American Art.

The Addison Gallery is open free to the public Tuesdays through Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Sundays from 2:30 p.m. to 5 p.m. Current exhibitions continue through November 24.

There are no clocks in Las Vagas gambling casinos.

Buskin and Batteau

Songwriters, Mimes At Center

Buskin and Batteau, the popular and versatile songwriters/performers, and the multi-talented, storytelling mimes, Stromberg and Cooper, bring their unique stage shows to Andover's J. Everett Collins Center for the Performing Arts on Saturday, Oct. 26, at 8 p.m. Both teams enthralled Collins Center audiences last year with their spicy entertainment and return this season with more pun-laden lyrics, rich melodies, mime and very dry humor.

Buskin and Batteau have been repeatedly cited for their ingenious performances which combine wry humor and talented songwriting with instrumental and vocal virtuosity. This refreshing combination caused one critic to say that B&B's sophisticated act "breathes a new life into the unfashionable genre of the folk-pop, singer-songwriter."

Prior to their initial collaboration 15 years ago, David Buskin and Robin Batteau worked as solo recording artists. As songwriters, their material has been recorded by such musical luminaries as Bette Midler, Peter, Paul and Mary, Anne Murray, Johnny Mathis and Shirley Bassey, among many others.

Most recenty, Buskin and Batteau have been working closely with Tom Rush, whose instinct for discovering great songwriters is legendary. Tom was the first to record the work of Joni Mitchell, Jackson Browne and James Taylor and his current repertoire includes several songs by David and Robin.

Bob Stromberg and Michale Cooper will bring the very best of their storytelling material and mummery antics to the Collins Center.

Drawing upon monologues, dialogues and pantomine, Stromberg and Cooper tell stories through comedy, pathos, original music and audience participation.

Master Illusionist To Be Featured

David Copperfield, the master illusionist who has performed such legendary feats as vanishing a seven-ton jet and levitating a $10,000 Ferrari will bring his dazzling show of prestidigitation to Andover's J. Everett Collins Center on November 13 at 5:30 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. The 8:30 p.m. performance has been sold out, however, tickets for the 5:30 p.m. show are on sale at the Collins Center box office.

The Statue of Liberty vanished before millions of television viewers in 1983, under Copperfield's spell. He magically floated over the Grand Canyon the following year. Just last month, the grand magician spent three weeks in Beijing, China, where he walked through the Great Wall.

Copperfield's abracadabra block-buster stage exhibits have earned him the Entertainer of the Year Award by the American Guild of Variety Artists. At the age of 13, he became the youngest person ever to receive the title "Magician of the Year' from the Academy of Magical Arts.

He writes, directs and creates all of his work and has successfully developed a sophisticated, Broadway-style appeal. Influenced by the art of Gene Kelly and Fred Astaire, Copperfield blends story lines and drama into his performances, turning magic into captivating theatre.

During one musical performance, 20,000 people witnessed the disappearance of the group "Earth, Wind and Fire" from the stage and their subsequent reappearnace in a monolith over the heads of the audience. Once, when asked what he'd next make disappear, Copperfield mused, "I don't know. . .the moon?"

Tickets are available at the Collins Center Box Office, Shawsheen Road, off Routes 133 and 93 in Andover or by phone.

The movie "Sleep" by Andy Warhol consists solely of a man sleeping for eight hours.

Concert Calendar Announced

Treble Chorus of New England

The Treble Chorus of New England has prepared a concert schedule for the Greater Boston community for its 11th season. Composed of 70 children from ten communities, the choir is based at South Church, Andover. Specializing in singing sacred and secular classical music, this professional quality chorus is under the direction of Marie Stultz, its founder and artistic director. St. Robert's Teachers At Workshop

Teachers at St. Robert's Country Day School in West Andover had an opportunity to meet Chef Combo recently at a nutrition workshop for preschool educators. Coordinating the program was Helen Keegan, education director.

Chef Combo is a hand puppet used to help introduce teachers to "Food. . .Early Choices," a nutrition-learning system for use with three and four-year-olds in nursery schools and day care centers.

Joanne Gatto, nutrition education consultant with Dairy Council, explains, "Through actual experiences and participation, such as peeling a potato or growing one, a child develops attitudes and behaviors which lay the basis for understanding food and nutrition. The learning activities also contribute to the child's social, emotional, motor, sensory, cognitive and language development."

Joanne Zitek, coordinator of Dairy Council's community program, reports wide acceptance from teachers and pupils throughout New England who have participated in "Food. . .Early Choices." "It's a comfortable way to introduce young children to nutrition know-how," she says. "Through games and nutrition activities, they become more aware of food and where it comes from. They can better understand why food gives them energy or, as Chef Combo calls it, 'giddity-up-go power'."

Nutritionists Join Faculty

Two former Harvard nutritionists have joined the College of Health Professions faculty at the University of Lowell and are establishing their nutritional biochemistry laboratory at the university.

Robert J. Nicolosi of North Andover, former chairman of nutrition at Harvard Medical School New England Regional Primate Research Center, has been appointed professor in the clinical laboratory science department. He is a former associate professor of comparative pathology, Harvard, and is a visiting professor, Tufts University School of Nutrition.

David M. Hegsted, professor emeritus, department of nutrtion, Harvard School of Public Health, has been appointed to the adjunct faculty and will serve as a nutrition consultant. He helped develop the national dietary guidelines for the U.S. Department of Agriculture and was associate director for research, Harvard Medical School, New England Regional Primate Center.

Nicolosi will continue his research examining the influence of dietary fat and cholesterol on cardiovascular disease.

Nicolosi, who has done much of his research at Harvard Medical School, has moved his research team to ULowell and, with the help of professionals already associated with community health programs, hopes to begin the development of health promotional programs in the Greater Lowell area. "The time is ripe to develop a center for health promotion in the Merrimack Valley. We can offer resources which can contribute to developing such a program," Nicolosi said. "It's so important that people become aware that their diet can affect chronic diseases such as cardiovascular disease. Now that research has determined that 50 percent of premature death and disability result from lifestyle factors such as inappropriate diet, we plan on developing nutritional education programs that emphasize preventative measures for both the geriatric and pediatric populations. Like other programs, this one will also require support from both the university and state.

Nicolosi has been working in this area for the past 12 years and has been interested in how various diseases are affected by certain dietary variables. He began experimentation in non-human primates because their response to many variables is very similar to our response." With these primates, diet can be the only variable to test in an experiment, while with humans, it is impossible to maintain such a controlled environment. Things like exercise, smoking and stress tend to interfere with interpretation of experimental results," he said. "Because of the similarities in response, the results of studies in non-human primates can be more applicable to humans than other animal models."

Pleased with his appointment to ULowell, Nicolosi noted that the university is an ideal location for his long range objectives. "The University of Lowell has provided the challenge to develop and extend this research program. To have a strong teaching program, we must have a strong research department," he said. Nicolosi hopes that his research will attract the interest of others within the university. "I'd like them to utilize the primates because they can be an important resource for others to investigate other diet-related disease problems.

Nicolosi was educated at St. Anselm's, New Hampshire and was awarded a M.S. and a Ph.D. from the University of New Hampshire. In addition to numerous publications, Nicolosi has contributed to six books dealing with the affect of diet and hypercholesterolemia in non-human primates.

Hegsted received his B.S. from the University of Idaho and his M.s. and Ph.D. from the University of Wisconsin. He was also awarded an honorary A.M. from Harvard University, and has written numerous articles and books relating to his research.

Visions of Sugarplums is the title of the annual Christmas Bazaar being conducted Saturday by the Quota Club of Greater Lawrence at Gaythorne, the Knights of Columbus Hall on Route 28, Methuen, Saturday, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. A Dress-A-Doll auction will be a special attraction at 1 p.m. Committee members planning the event include, front row, from left, Suzannah Vose and Ruth Kamitian; rear row, Jennie Mansour, Joanne Giuffrida, president and Marion Trovato.

Health Hint

Dryness is the lips' number one enemy. Lack of himidity in the air actually sucks moisture out of delicate lips which do not have the same protective outer layer, or stratum corneum, found in other skin. Lips then become chapped, the end result being dry, red, inflamed lips.

If indoors' air is dry, don't lick lips. This moisture is actually evaporating with painful cracking and fissures the end result. Instead, keep a humidifier running, drink lots of water and use a medicated lip ointment.

Skin that is dry and chapped is more vulnerable to bacterial infection. Thus, chapped lips set the stage for outbreaks of cold sores and fever blisters.

Skiers should protect their lips and help block evaporation of natural moisture by applying a mdicated lip balm with maximal PABA sunscreen before heading to the slopes, then reapply as needed—under or over lipstick.

When the weatherman warns of low wind chill factor on a wintry morning, be careful to protect lips. Skin as well as lips can freeze more rapidly because wind chill increases heat loss.

Museum Publishes History Of New Hampshire Town

"Factory Under the Elms," a history of Harrisville, N.H., by John Borden Armstrong, Boston University professor of history, is available in a new facsimile edition published by the Museum of American Textile History.

Located in the rugged Monadnock highlands of New Hampshire, the mill village of Harrisville, with its mellow red brick buildings, straddles a tumbling stream in a narrow valley surrounded by wooded hills. In 1969, when "Factory Under the Elms" was first published, this rather sleepy, well-worn village with its fitfully operating woolen mill was recognized as a place of special interest and value among New England milltowns, the only example that dated from the early 19th century and still survived in its original form.

Today, Harrisville is a National Historic Landmark and is known as a success story in historical preservation. In the 1970s, in response to a town crisis caused by the closing of the Cheshire Mills in bankruptcy, townspeople and preservationists made one of the first successful attempts in the country to preserve a whole community of historical importance. They accomplished it by preservation techniques and values familiar today, but then highly innovative, including historic district legislation, revolving loan funds for restoration work, adaptive reuse of buildings and a system of legal preservation covenants.

Woodworking Tools Exhibited

An exhibit of woodworking tools with their function and age identified is at the North Andover Historical Society until December 9. The exhibit is a collaborative effort of those who handle woodworking tools as a business and those for whom they are a hobby. The hobbyists include a tool collector as well as one who works with the well crafted early implements in appreciation for what they produce. The labeling, books available for browsing and the opportunity to try your hand with early planes at the workbench reflect their different perspectives.

Included in this exhibition is the largest crown molding plane extant in America. Its unused appearance indicates that it was probably a carpenter's model. The oldest dated hammer is also on view, one which appears in a late 17-century publication. The largest tool is an eight-foot-long 18th century pit saw which worked up and down to saw planks from a log. Another 18th century example is the try square used to "try" the edges to be sure they were square. The tool chest on view would have been taken to work by the joiner, carpenter, housewright or woodworker; any of whom could have used it. In addition to the many molding planes, there are implements used in building construction as well as cabinet making. The gentlemen responsible for the exhibit are Herman Freedman of Andover, Blain Saunders of North Andover and Richard Croteau of Lawrence.

The exhibit is open Tuesday and Friday from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. and Sunday from 1 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. There will be demonstrations each Sunday through the end of November from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Custom Furniture at Factory Prices

suggested retail $752

OUR PRICE $376

We have been handcrafting traditional and contemporary furniture for over 30 years. Our modern Worcester plant is staffed with a team of skilled craftsmen and women, who manufacture some of the finest furniture in the United States.

Visit our factory outlets. Our sales consultants are available to assist you in selecting a style and choosing a fabric.

We guarantee our frames and springing for as long as you own our furniture. We use only 5/4" solid kiln-dried maple for frame construction. Each piece is individually selected before being cut. The frames are all joined in the classic way with wooden dowels and corner blocks for reinforcement (no nails or screws to loosen in time). Our more traditional pieces are hand carved with beautiful detail.

After our furniture is constructed we pad the entire piece inside and out with cotton, for more comfort, longer life and a more refined look.

For seat cushions you can choose the highest quality foam cores (from soft to very firm) or down.

When the fabric is upholstered acrosss the frame, fine attention is paid to each detail from matching patterns to perfect fit. All skirts are fully lined. Each item of furniture is set up on an inspection table and examined carefully before it is shipped.

We handcraft loveseats, sofas, chairs, ottomans, sectionals and sleepers. You can select any style in any fabric, "truly custom furniture but at factory prices."

Edward T. Sheehan, Jr.
Vice President, Residential Mortgage Lending

Mortgage rates are down. For homeowners who purchased within the last few years, this may be the perfect time to refinance at a lower rate. A lower rate that can save you thousands of dollars over the life of your mortgage while letting you cash in on the added value of your home.

Sound interesting? We have both fixed and variable rate plans available. Not to mention the special help we provide as a local lender with over 150 years of experience.

For more information on refinancing your mortgage, please visit the Andover Bank office nearest you or call our Mortgage Loan Center at 475-6194. Whether you have your mortgage with us or somewhere else we're here to help.

Corrective Legislation May Put Off Need For Special Session

By Lisa Waterman

Corrective legislation, introduced by State Rep. Sue Tucker of Andover, may alleviate the need for a special town meeting vote to obtain professional education grants under the Public School Improvement Act.

Last week the Andover school committee viewed the problem of a possible loss of $116,000 in funding if a special town meeting was not called before February. It is expected the corrective legislation will relieve that problem.

During discussions in the state legislature on the Education Reform Bill, the amount of money spent on teachers was a subject of debate, according to Rep. Tucker.

Incentive plans to attract teachers into state school systems along with education needs in the state, instructional materials, drop-out prevention, testing for essential skills and the problem of equalizing resources between the wealthy and the poor, were addressed in the Public School Improvement Act, according to Rep. Tucker.

"What we finaly settled on (for the teachers) was essentially a bonus, the first that the state has been involved in regarding municipal salaries," Rep. Tucker said. "It is a two-year experiment. A large commission in the legislature will be evaluating the role of the state in teachers salaries."

The Professional Development grant has two sections. The first provides a grant to teachers in the school system based on $23 per pupil. The School Committee and the Teacher's Union for the town will decide how the money will be distributed. The second part is an $18,000 minimium salary.

The state will aid communities, via the Professional Development grant, in raising, over a two-year period, the minimium salary of teachers entering the school system and teachers who are already in the school system who were employed prior to July 1985, to a minimium yearly salary of $18,000 per year.

An amendment to the bill filed this week, would include teachers hired after July 1985 and prior to July of 1986, according to Gregg Dillard, research analysist for the Committee on Education.

"The intent of this is to include teachers who have been hired as a result of the passage of Chapter 188 (The Education Reform Bill)" Dillard said. "The state would pay to raise the low salaries of teachers to up to $18,000. If a teacher is receiving $14,500, the state would kick in the additional $3,500 for the first year."

After the initial two-year run, the town might be required to pick up the tab to raise the minimum salaries of the teachers within the system. Additional costs in the first year, for those teachers who will be making more than $18,000 is incurred by the town.

If, during the first year of the grant when a teacher with, for example, five years of experience, who is getting $18,200 does not feel a $200 per year raise is fair, when new teachers entering the system receive $18,000, and requests a raise to $19,000, the town would be required to pump the additional $800 into the local system, according to Supt. Dr. Kenneth R. Seifert.

"According to recent studies, a serious teacher shortage is expected to occur within the next five years," Rep. Tucker said. "The Professional Development Grants could be utilized to help attract good teachers to the area."

In the original draft of the bill, funds for the Professional Development Grant were to be released by Feb. 15, 1986. Towns that did not have a Fall Town meeting would not be eligible for the first payment of the grant funds.

The language of the corrective legislation would be that: in cases of towns such as Andover, with no Town Meeting prior to February, a vote to accept the grant by the School Committee and the town would free the funds after the February cut-off date.

"Corrective legislation has been put in and I don't see any problem with its passage," Rep. Tucker told the TOWNSMAN.

Incentive Grant Is Awarded

Andover has recieved a $13,300 Incentive Aide grant to encourage minority internship placements in jobs that involve local managerial government or school systems.

The grant is sponsored by the Massachusetts Municipal managers program and the Executive Office of Community Development and Opportunities.

The program's internships are devised to last six months to one year, according to Ann Rossi, public information officer for Sen. Patricia McGovern.

"The program was devised to improve and enhance local governments and schools management practices," Rossi said.

California Firm Opens In Andover

With many developments still waiting for their first tenants, the state-of-the-art design of Andover Tech Center has succeeded in attracting one of the country's leading artificial intelligence companies, Lisp Machine Inc., to move its headquarters from Los Angeles, Calif., to a 128,000-square-foot building in the Andover high tech development

Senator Edward M. Kennedy and Fifth District Congressman Chet Atkins were on hand last Friday afternoon for the grand opening of the plant in West Andover and the open house that followed.

"Being careful not to over-build the market with properties not equipped with the necessary levels of services and amenities, The Prudential Devlopment Group, one of the largest developers in the U.S., designed Andover Tech Center specifically to meet the needs of premier, leading edge companies," explained Jeffrey Danker, investment manager for the Prudential Development Group. "The natural surroundings and the innovative building design provide an environment for research and development, office operations and manufacturing, as well as the atmosphere required to produce new products and new ideas. LMI is the kind of leading edge company which appreciates the quality of its surroundings and which plans to take full advantage of the capabilities Andover Tech Center has to offer."

With its commitment to the Andover area, the Prudential Development Group has finished four of the seven buildings planned for the naturally wooded 66-acre office park and is currently leasing a total of 300,000 square feet to Bell Labs, Network Systems, Analog Devices, Software International (a G.E. subsidiary) and LMI. These two and three-level buildings, when completed in 1987, will range from 100,000-160,000 square feet. Total cost for the development is estimated at more than 60 million dollars.

Because of its convenient location off I-93 and its proximity to I-494, Route 128 and Boston, Andover Tech Center is well situated for easy accessibility from many locations.

It boasts quality construction and amenities, including natural wooded surroundings, ample parking, strikingly designed building entrance atria, efficient and flexible mechanical systems and an established building management and maintenance team.

Andover Tech Center is also an integral part of a 600-acre high technology development.

Homecoming Weekend

Plenty of Warrior spirit managed to offset the wet and gloomy elements Saturday during Andover High School's Homecoming Day. Events for the day, conducted during halftime, included entertainment from the Andover High School Marching Band, class floats parading by the stands and the traditional crowning of the king and queen and their court. Photos clockwise from upper left: Kelly MacLean marches with her class banner; Phil Kendall checks on the rain gear covering the big A on the junior's float; The seniors and their float show everybody who is number one; The 1985 homecoming queen and her court, from left, junior attendant, Cathy Licata, senior attendant, Jessyca Katz, Queen Julie Levay and sophomore attendant, Beth Vinci. The CBD Study

The continued efforts of the planning board to prepare a comprehensive plan for the Central Business District for presentation to the annual town meeting seem to be moving along on a proper path.

The board held another public forum last Wednesday night and while attendance may have been somewhat light, those appearing certainly represented the nucleus of those most concerned with the business district as well as its abutters.

As could be predicted, the main point of concern about the CBD is parking. It is a perpetual problem and one with which the town must come to grips soon.

Despite the creation of new and additional parking spaces to the rear of the former town hall, finding a place to leave the family buggy for a quick shopping tour or even all day, remains a problem.

Not too long ago it was revealed that the town was far short of its parking needs even with the additional spaces.

There are suggestions as to how to handle the situation, the prime one being construction of the three-deck parking garage at the Municipal Parking lot on Main street.

There are other suggestions, such as parking stickers for residents which would enable them to park in front of their own property in areas abutting the business district, seeking areas for Boston commuters and providing areas for employers of downtown retail shops and professional offices.

For some time now, both the planners and selectmen have been discussing the idea of turning some of these matters over to a parking study committee or commission.

We would suggest that such a commission be activated without delay in order to facilitate the overall study being done by the planners.

The commission should be charged with the responsibility of examining not only parking needs, but traffic flow as well.

The planners intend to begin their composition of the report and recommendations for town meeting some time in December.

Town meeting will be some time in April.

Both time elements seem distant right now, but somehow the calendar slips by rapidly and such matters of importance get put off to another year.

A request for funds for construction of a parking garage will require a tremendous public-relations effort, which should likewise get underway soon.

All of which dictates that selectmen, in particular, should begin to move quickly to assist in the planning process of the Central Business District by getting the parking and traffic commission proposal out of the talking stage and into working order.

Down The Years With The Townsman

75 Years Ago - October 1910

On Monday evening, the Town Hall was the scene of an enthusiastic rally with Govenor Eben S. Draper as the chief figure. His Excellency, who arrived in Andover about four o'clock in the afternoon, was met at the top of the hill by the entire student body of Phillips Academy whom he addressed for about ten minutes amidst much cheering. He was then driven to the residence of William M. Wood, where he was a guest at dinner. In the evening he was escorted to the Town Hall, where a concert was given by the Andover Brass Band. He made his appearance at the hall through lines of red fire, held by small boys along Main Street, who cheered him lustily.

Joseph L. Burns, Democratic candidate for Representative held a "Citizens Rally," in the Town Hall last night. Alvin E. Tough was the presiding officer and about 150 people were present to hear a harangue of about an hour in which Mr. Burns abused William M. Wood, and John N. Cole. A Boston lawyer by the name of Long also spoke.

At the prize roll-off in the Essex Street bowling alley on Wednesday night, Edward Anderson secured the first prize of $3.00, Peter Cairnie, the second of $2.00., while Alex Riley won third prize of $1.00.

50 Years Ago - October 1935

Philias Laroche of Corbett Street, licensed his dog last Saturday, but it took the police department and finally Judge Colver J. Stone to make him do it. Laurouche's dog had bitten a dog a short time ago, and when it was found that the dog was unlicensed, the police suggested that he license it. Suggestion gave way to persusion, persuasion gave way to commands, commands gave way to a court summons, and finally Larouche gave way to Judge Stone. The case was placed on file, with Laroche walking in to see the Town Clerk George H. Winslow about having his dog licensed.

25 Years Ago - October 1960

A major revision of industrial zoning is contemplated, with the Planning Board and Industrial Commission now studying proposals from consultants in the field. The plan calls for zoning some 1,650 acres of land for industry, exclusive of the long-standing districts and filter bed area zoned last March. Of the 1,650 acres suggested by consultants, it is noted that a net developable acreage is 1,400 to 1,500 acres will be available

Andover's Blue Devils, displaying a rare brand of courage in the face of adversity, won special tribute from Coach Dick Collins this week. "They played the best game of the season," Collins emphasized, even though they lost to Woburn, 28-12. "It was good, rough, tough football," Collins said.

10 Years Ago - October 1960

The issue of the town's indemnity in legal proceedings seems in doubt this week, as school committee members named in a civil rights suit have rejected a Boston attorney whom Town Manager J. Maynard Austin was prepared to name to defend them. John F. Lyons and John L. Wragg announced Wednesday that they have retained the firm of Atwood, McGrath and Wright of 500 Boylston St., Boston, to defend them in a suit brought by former Asst. Supt. of Schools Edward F. Regan. Both members were on the board when Regan was refused reappointment. The suit seeks $150,000 stemming from the refusal to reappoint Regan, failure to grant him a public hearing and state reasons why any alleged irregularities in preparing to make an official vote in April 1974. Regan contends his reputation has been damaged with the result he had not been able to obtain employment.

The last newspaper collection week in Andover was the largest ever with 51 tons of newspapers collected.

The Public Forum

Grateful

To The Editor Of The TOWNSMAN:

I would like to give public thanks to those who have congratulated us for receiving a Fulbright Fellowship to Sri Lanka. It is the thrill of a lifetime opportunity and my wife, Nancy, and I are very excited about it; our three-year-old, Mark, can now pronounce Sri Laka and, after seeing some pictures, says he wants to "meet Buddha" over there—I wish him luck!

The Fulbright Fellowships are aimed at increasing international understanding, and I can't tell you how moved I am to think of the U.S government funding such exchanges. The fellowships are a small step, but what a crucially important goal! As the technologies of communication and transportation continue to shrink the world, it must become more and more obvious to all how deeply interconnected all of us humans are to each other. The pictures of Earth taken from outer space make it very clear: we humans are all in this together, what we have in common far outweighs the differences that divide us; we breathe the same air and drink the same water and share the same yearning to live and prosper. It is crucial that we expand our minds and hearts to identify with the whole of Earth and not just with one part of it; our thinking can no longer be confined by national boundaries. That the United States, which is after all, one nation among many, is willing to encourage such programs as the Fulbright Fellowships testifies eloquently to America's ability to see something of the future and to begin moving toward it with confidence.

I am especially reminded of the imperative need to think globally as I watch the "War" series on channel 2 (Tuesday 9 p.m, Thursday 11 p.m.). Nuclear war is simply too catastrophically destructive to be of any use to anyone; as Dyer says, "there's nothing in the world that's worth blowing the world up for." It's as if we are all in a big lifeboat; if I, hoping to hurt you, shot a hole through the bottom of your end of the lifeboat, all I have, in fact, done is doom everyone. The need to think globally is not just a matter of pious idealism, it is a matter of deadly serious practicality and enlightened self-interest. We, as a species, must broaden our mental horizons and do so quickly before it is too late. The Fulbright Fellowships are a small step in the right direction, so that from this point of view participation in the program gives us a sense of humility and responsiblity as well as of joy.

As we embark on our adventure, we will think of our friends at home often. Thanks for your support.

GRAB BARS

How often have you used a built in ceramic soap dish as a grab bar when getting out of the bath tub? Unfortunately, the answer for many is once. A soap dish was never intended to carry any more weight than a bar of soap. Instead, a chrome plated metal grab bar should be screwed into the studs behind the wall surface. In shower stalls and in tubs used only for tub-bathing, straight bars, 16-32 inches lont, can be installed vertically in appropriate positions. The National Safety Council also recommends that a bar be installed extending from the floor to ceiling. It should be just outside the tub and 18-24 inches from its foot. This feature adds considerable safety to tub use.

Sometimes the smallest features are the most important when remodeling a kitchen or bathroom. WINDSOR KITCHENS can show you the major and minor items for redoing your bathroom. One essential cabinet is the bathroom vanity. It is quite attractive and provides vital storage space, especially in small bathrooms. Come in to 1181 Boston Rd., Ward Hill and let us show you all the avenues available to you when you wish to put beautiful cabinets in any room in your home. We're here Mon. Thurs. 9-5:30, Fri. til 8, Sat. til 2. Tel. 372-3444

HANDY HINT:
Grab bars are almost essential in bathrooms of the elderly.

forth by residents and the board for discussion.

An overlay zone, located in the area of Park and Barnard axis, was proposed by the board. Further restrictions placed on the area that is already zoned for general business, would be to allow only retail space on the first floor. That would promote less retail space being lost to first floor business offices, according to Jeton.

There is one-quarter of a million square feet of empty office space within two miles of Elm Square, according to a survey conducted by an intern for the planning board, last summer.

The use of a multi-family buffer zone along the eastern, north and south sides adjacent to the general business zone, was suggested by the board to protect multi-family housing stock and establish a clear boundry around the C.B.D.

The goals and objectives proposed by the planning board were to confine commercial development in the existing GB zone, protect residential areas from intrusion by the business zone for parking and traffic use and encourage walking.

If expansion of the business district becomes necessary, the board suggested a concentrated district, not a radial pattern, be encouraged.

The board would seek better utilization of space in the Park-Barnard axis behind the Old Town Hall, on Pearson Street at Olde Andover Village and on North Main street for future development of the GB district

"We need a comprehensive parking program and a study of the problem should be done over the next year," Jeton said.

The Planning Board will be working a final development plan for the Central Business District until mid-December in preparation for the Spring Town Meeting. The aesthetics along with market and land use of the C.B.D. will also be considered by the board, with the help of public and business concerns and suggestions.

The Planning Board would like continued proposals from residents and businessmen about the development of the Central Business District, according to Jeton.

If you could drive to the sun at the speed limit (55 miles an hour), you'd get there in about 193 years, if you didn't stop for coffee.

Indians Beat Warriors

During a wet and muddy battle, the Billerica Indians came out on top bringing down the Andover High Warriors 14-7 in Saturday afternoon action. Booters On Winning Track

By Billy Ernesto-Martin

The Andover varsity soccer team remained on the winning track as they defeated Lawrence 9-0 and Methuen 4-1.

The Warriors travelled to Lawrence last Wednesday and came away with an easy 9-0 win. Chris Sapuppo scored a mere four minutes into the contest on a pass from Scott Wilkins. A minute and a half later, he scored again, with another assist from Wilkins. Paul McAdam made the score 3-0 when he blasted one in from 18 yards. Twelve minutes later, Mark Neaves tapped one in on a rebound off the post. The assist was from Mark Shapiro. John Saalfrank added another one minute later on a 35-yard volley. One minute later, Chris Abell made the score 6-0, when he scored from 18 yards out.

John Lecomte scored 25 minutes into the second half on a pass from Abell. Seven minutes later, Steve Napolitano made the score 8-0, when he put one in off a Lawrence defender. He finished the scoring three minutes later on a pass from Abell. Although not tested, goalies Bob Pothier and Brian Cronin played well saving three of the four Lawrence shots.

The Warriors played Methuen on Friday and improved their record to 11-1-2, tying them for first place in the Merrimack Valley Large School Division. John Saalfrank scored two minutes into the contest, on an 18-yard chip, on a pass from John Lecomte. Lecomte scored seven minutes later as he headed in a pass from Sapuppo. Methuen got one goal back 16 minutes latr on an 18-hard blast.

Barry Tucker made the score 3-1 on a picture-perfect direct penalty kick from just outside the penalty area. With only three minutes left in the game, he scored again on a pass from Wilkins.

INFORMATION CONCERNING CABLE TELEVISION FOR EVERYONE.

By Jim Novo, October 24, 1985

FREE LUNCH, PART THREE

Last week, I finished with a question: What decision was made by the media industry regarding the "special interest" television audience, who was found to be averse to network programming and commercials?

They got into cable television.

Ownership of the cable networks is usually split by many interests, and changes as I write this column, but here goes:

1. MTV and Nickelodeon are owned by Warner-Amex; Nashville Network by Group W.

2. The USA network is owned by UA-Columbia.

3. Lifetime, ESPN, and Arts & Entertainment networks are owned by ABC/Hearst.

The plot thickens! Cable networks are actually owned and operated by networks, publishing companies, motion picture studios, and major TV and radio conglomerates, just to mention a few. In fact, many of the major cable operators are owned wholly or in part by publishing and broadcasting companies; these operators in turn may own a piece of one or more cable networks. confused? After all, cable is "the enemy", right? We are the ones that are eroding network viewership, causing lackluster turnouts at the box office, and softening subscriptions to news and entertainment magazines and newspapers. Yet when you think about the overall scenario, if an ABC or a Columbia Pictures has to lose revenue in one area, it would make sense to direct that flow into another pocket. They are hedging, playing the portfolio game; vertical integration is a very viable positioning in the video business.

What is vertical integration? A manufacturing company may own the raw material suppliers, manufacturing, and distribution/marketing chain; they control the entire process from beginning to end, and realize economies of scale and internal profit taking at each step. The middleman, and inherent inflation of costs at each level, are eliminated by control of the parent company. Widely accepted in "traditional" industries, can it possibly apply to the television business! You bet.

Hoop School In Lowell

The annual Red Raiders Basketball School, a series of Saturday clinics, will be held November 2, 9, 16 and 23 at Lowell High School Riddick Fieldhouse from 8:45 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Boys ages 10-15 years are eligible.

The school staff consists of Lowell High School varsity coach Charlie Ryan, assistant coach Dennis Canney and former varsity skipper (now freshman) Mike Crowley.

Ryan, a six-time "Sun" Coach of the Year and 1984 Massachusetts Basketball Coaches Association Coach of the Year, has enlisted the services of many outstanding area college and high school coaches. Lecturers will include former Boston Celtic M.L. Carr, former Lowell High School and Texas Christian University standout Tracy Mitchell, who had a lengthy tryout with the Celts this year, outstanding local official Alex Robinson and member of the Salem State College and 1984-85 Lowell High School squads.

No varsity players will be accepted. The school features individualized instruction, skill stations, 1-on-1 tournament, 3-on-3 competition, foul shooting contest, t-shirts and awards.

For further information, call Ryan.

Pee Wee B's

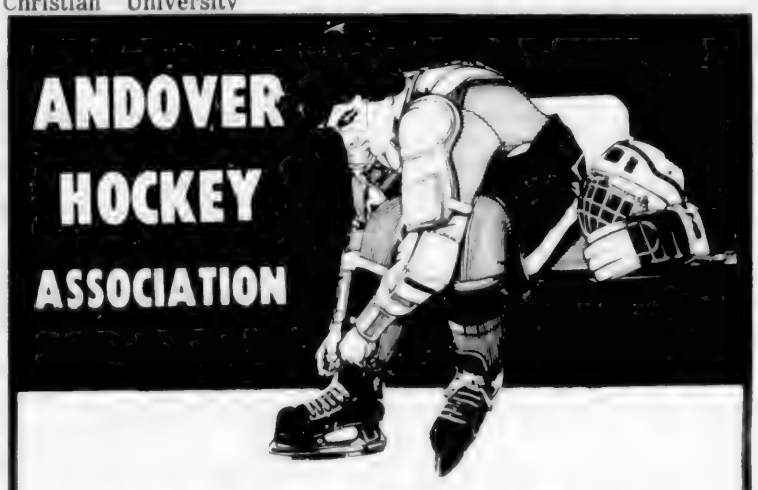

The boys are back in hockey action after a long summer rest. The parity rounds continue and the team, under returning coaches, Mark Guittarr and George Coburn, are showing signs of strong improvement.

Four of the boys were lost to the Pee Wee A's during tryouts, but some new, talented players were picked up. Greg Afarian, Bobby sheehan, Matt Tanner, Pete O'Shea and Mike D'Angelo are going to be welcome additions in their respective postions.

The team had a few shaky games in the begining, but came back strong to take two in a row from Cape Ann and Chelmsford. Chelmsford was the toughest opponent. Andover won 2-0 in a fast-paced game. The boys shot, passed and played their positions well. Billy Owens scored a beautiful backhander to give the team a 1-0 lead. Mike Daley closed the door on all Chelmsford scorers with some excellent defensive help from Michael Walsh and John Constantine. D'Angelo added an insurance goal late in the third period.

The team wasn't as lucky against Peabody-/Beverly. The 4-0 score didn't reflect the hard work the boys exhibited. Tim Fox, Joey Liguori and Joe Howard kept pounding the goalie, but nothing would go by him.

Jay Coburn is back after his accident last fall. Danny Feeley and Jay will combine for many goals this season. Also welcome is O'Shea.

Beverly pressed the attack in the first half and were able to score two goals, one on a long shot which went in over the keeper's outstretched hands and the other a deflection off the head of a defender. Plan

Airline passengers may experience delays at airports due to increased security measures and busy holiday travel, the American Automobile Association reported.

New security measures include suspension of curbside check-in on international flights, closer scrutiny of carry-on luggage and selective hand inspection of checked luggage.

To avoid delays, the motoring federation urged travelers to make certain that their baggage contains no articles that may be considered dangerous by airport security personnel.

Passengers with questions may contact their local AAA club or other travel agent.

The National Arbor Day Foundation will give two White Dogwood, two American Redbud, two European Mountainash, two Washington Hawthorn and two flowering crab trees to people who join during October. The six to 12 inch trees will be sent postpaid at the right time for planting before December 10 with enclosed planting instructions. The trees are guaranteed to grow or will be replaced free of charge.

Raiders Remain Undefeated

The Dolphins upset the Redskins 13-0 and the first-place Raiders remained undefeated with a 28-0 thrashing of the Colts in last Sunday's action.

The Dolphins and Redskins played to a hard-hitting scoreless tie in the first half, but the third quarter told the story as the Dolphins registered all their points. Halfback Jason McCue scored both touchdowns, one on a four-yard jaunt and the other on a nifty 25-yard sweep around the right side. Quarterback Matt Harris accounted for the extra point, following McCue's second score. Other Dolphins contributing to the victory were Oliver Heath, Brian Duffy, Curt Solomon, Peter Vail and Ryan Lynch on offense and Todd Harris, Nat Leavitt and Steven Kulcsar on defense. Redskins who played well were linemen Ryan Kelly, Scott Bucannon and Jon Maloney and backs Sean Veasy, Sean Ryan and Rich DeAngelis on offense and Mark Dodge, Mark Avery, Jeff and Chris Davis, Dan Burm and Herb Foster on defense.

The Raiders dominated play in the second game against the Colts. Paul Lembo opened the scoring when he intercepted a pass and ran it back 35 yards. The extra point was good on a pass from quarterback Joe Iarrobino to halfback Matt Perry. The same combination accounted for the second touchdown on a 23-yard scoring strike and a 13-0 halftime lead. The Raiders struck again in the third quarter when quarterback Rich Radulski, behind a great block from end Jon O'Neil, raced around the right side and went 36 yards for the touchdown. Chris Lembo scored the extra point on a dive through the line making it 20-0. The Raiders' final touchdown was set up by a Bob-Kenny interception and 30-yard return to the Colt four-yard line where fullback Rejji Hayes burst up the middle making it 26-0. The Raiders closed out the scoring in the fourth quarter when outside linebacker Matt Perry and defensive end Dennis Grogan sacked the Colt quarterback in the end zone for a two-point safety, making the final score 28-0. Playing well for the undefeated Raiders were Andy Bedell (tackle) and Brian Bradley (guard) on offense and Kirk McConville (linebacker), Brian Davis (end) and Jim Sullivan (tackle) on defense.

Colt players singled out by the coaching staff for their play were Marc Barron, Joe Hastings, Brian Novelline, Todd Murray, David Johnson, Sean Balwin and Justin Lattanzio on offense and Craig Tetrault, Matt Levine and Toby Guzowski on defense.

Conference

"Introducing the Gulf of Maine," a day-long conference for elementary and secondary school teachers in northern New England, is scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 26, at the Southern Maine Vocational Technical Institute in South Potland. Registration begins at 8:30 a.m.

The conference will feature workshops on lobsters and lobstering, fish and fishing, whales, the U.S./Canadian maritime boundary dispute, the Titanic disaster, weather and the life of a fisherman's wife. A seafood luncheon will be sponsored by the Maine Fishermen's Wives' Association and there will be an afternoon cruise of Casco Bay, narrated by Smithsonian scientists.

The carpenter who built the first stocks in Boston in 1634, a man named Palmer, was the first to occupy them, for charging what the town elders thought was an excessive sum for the stocks' construction.

Doherty Happenings

The boys' soccer team defeated West 2-1. The team started off poorly in the first half, letting West jump ahead by one goal. But, in the second half, they came roaring back with a quick goal, thanks to A.J. Boutin, to tie the game. Then, after fighting a grueling 20 minutes, they were rewarded by a go-ahead goal by Mark Angeloes on a beautiful through pass from Matt Mac Vicar. As the whistle blew, the team went wild, not only did they defeat their arch rival, but they broke the Doherty Junior High School record for the most consecutive games won, the new record now stands at seven. The team also played Chelmsford last week, defeating them 4-1. Angeloes put in the first goal, tying up the game, then MacVicar banged in three goals, two on assists from Adam Galvin and one from Scott Lanoette to put Doherty ahead.

Doherty football is also undefeated. Last Friday, against Billerica, with no time left in the game, Steve Surrette hurled a 30-yard "bomb" to Jack Dalton who caught it and ran into the end-zone to win the game 12-8. Surrette also scored the first touchdown to put Doherty ahead. Outstanding play was turned in by Andy Shea, Mike Lastrina, Brian Donnelan, Andy MacIntire and Bob Hughes.

The girls' field hockey team has crushed teams by unbelievable scores like 2-0, 3-0 and an unreal 11-0. Leading goal scorers are Liz Shea with six and Jeanine Meckel with three. The teams that have suffered the wrath of this squad are Chelmsford, Phillips Academy and Dracut. Excellent play was shown in all three games by Laura Brink, Katy Wright, Sue Carroll, Christine Colangeli, Andrea Napolitano, Julie Enos, Jodi Saunders, Danielle Costanzo and Alison Scileppi. Amy Mencis, Joan Asgarssian and Kristan Tamarre also demonstrated consistently solid play.

Finally, the Doherty girls' soccer team, also undefeated, have played solid offense and defense in all their games. Standouts are Nicole Ricci, Dainia Gamman, Melissa Salazar and Erin Lynch.

Income Declines At Gillette

Sales and profit from operations of The Gillette Company in the third quarter ended September 30 were virtually unchanged from those of the same period a year go, but net income was lower as a result of an increase in the effetive tax rate. For the nine months ended September 30, sales and net income were about the same as those of last year, while profit from operations increased, Colman M. Mockler, Jr., chairman and chief executive officer, said recently.

Sales for the three months ended September 30 were $578.9 million, a decrease of 3 percent from $596.8 million for the same period in 1984. Profit from operations was $98.2 million, up 2 percent from 496.5 million a year earlier. Pretax income was $71.7 million, compared with $72.3 million in 1984, a decline of 1 percent. Net income of $38.8 million was down 11 percent from $43.7 million reported in the same period last year. Earnings per share of $1.25 compared with $1.42 a year earlier.

For the nine months ended September 30, sales rose 2 percent to $1.73 billion, compared with $1.69 billion in 1984. Profit from operations was $286.6 million, an increase of 7 percent from $267.2 milion the year before. Pretax income was $209.2 million, up 3 percent from $204 million in the prior year. Net income was $120.7 million, compared with $122 million in 1984, a decrease of 1 percent. Earnings per share of $3.91 compared with $3.97 the year before.

Sales and operating profits of Gillette North America in the third quarter were below the levels of a year ago. For the nine months, sales were virtually unchanged and operating profits were slightly higher than the comparable period a year ago.

Gillette International's sales for the third quarter were level, but operating profits were above the year before. For the nine months, sales were slightly lower and operating profits were slightly above the comparable period last year.

Standex Earnings Decline

Standex International Corporation (NYSE) reported a 43 percent decline n earnings on 13 percent lower sales in the first fiscal quarter ended September 30, as compared with the prior year. At the same time, the company stated that many of its operating units are now reporting a "healthier" pace of business and an accelerating rate of incoming orders.

The diversified company attributed the quarterly decline to the "general softness in the overall economy, particularly the manufacturing sector." Thomas L. King, president and chief executive, stated that "while Standex has been experiencing the same economic slowdown that has affected many companies over the past 12 months, we have recently experienced a modest, but very encouraging, upturn in activity." He added that "there is now optimism that the slowdown has stopped and the future looks brighter than it has for the past year."

In the first fiscal quarter ended September 30, net income amounted to $3.2 million or 24 cents a share, as compared with the prior year's net income of $5.6 million or 41 cents a share. Sales for the latest quarter amounted to $85.7 million, down from $98.5 million in the prior year's quarter. Earnings per share in the latest period were based on 13.3 million shares outstanding.

Units currently reporting improving results include the Roehlen "texturization" division, the metal-spinning unit, the institutional products group and some sectors of the electronics components business. King said the "Standex is actively seeking acquisition candidates that fit our criteria and fit with existing operations.

"Standex has never been stronger, from both the financial and operativing points of view. Our debt-to-capital ratio is at a conservative 19 percent, we have eliminated the "losers" and laggards from our operating units and we have made significant investments in plant and equipment, and more recently, in robotics, to maximize productivity." King said that, at September 30, book value amounted to $11.20 a share and the current ratio was 2.9 to 1.

Laurie Hebert of Sutton has the world at her fingertips.

Sutton Travel: When You'd Give the World

So you'd rather not think about the holidays.But what is a holiday? A real holiday?

It's a time to break away from the routine—the work, the house, the same old faces and places.

And what could be more appropriate to holidays than travel?

Sutton Travel at 141 Main Street in North Andover can help you create a holiday for yourself. Furthermore, Sutton can help you give someone else a holiday, because no gift is more precious than a gift of leisure.

"We've appointed ourselves cruise specialists," says Sutton's N. Andover branch manager Shirley MacGill. "There's something for everybody on a cruise—even golf." Golf? Yes, some cruises feature golf tournaments, stopping at the best island courses in the world. Macgill adds that while the golfers play, those who prefer spending the green to putting on it can also enjoy their favorite sport.

MacGill considers the cruise one of the best vacation buys for the money. The atmosphere, activities and spirit of relaxation give it "the highest rate of satisfaction for clients of any vacation travel."

Of course, Sutton doesn't limit itself to cruises. Sutton gives you the world. Europe—still a value with the dollar's high buying power. South America. Even the game reserves of Kenya and Tanzania. Sutton can arrange it all for you, down to the last detail. And the service is free.

Sutton Travel was begun more than 70 years ago by William Sutton; his granddaughter Betty Couillard now runs the Lawrence office at 21 Lawrence Street. The N. Andover branch, staffed by Certified Travel Counselor MacGill and agents Laurie Hebert and Connie Bruce, moved from Andover about 2½ years ago. MacGill estimates that 90 % of its Andover clientele continue to use Sutton— which is what you would expect from an organization that prides itself on customer satisfaction.

If you're looking for the world—or if you'd give the world to make someone close to you happy—look no farther than Sutton Travel. The N. Andover office is open M-Th 9-5:30; Fri 9-8; Sat 10-1. Call 687-3007.

Good News from Bardetti Volkswagen

Haverhill, MA — Joseph F. Bardetti, VW dealer at Bardetti Volkswagen, 915 S. Main St., Haverhill, announced that refinements in performance and equipment across the entire VW model line, as well as increased warranty protection make the 1986 models at Bardetti the best values ever.

"For those who want European performance at an affordable price," Bardetti said, "Both the high-performance GTI hatchback and Jetta GLI sports sedan have more horsepower and more torque this year. For cruising comfort, the GTI can now be ordered with an optional power convenience package and leather interior."

The 1986 VW limited warranty has been improved: protection against corrosion perforation has been extended from 3 to 6 years with no mileage limit. The 2-year Unlimited Mileage Protection Plan, new last year, covers the entire vehicle except the tires.

According to Bardetti, VW has also increased standard equipment levels on most models. The Golf now has a rear window wiper/washer system with an intermittent feature; the Quantum features sport seats and body-color light alloy wheels. The convertible Cabriolet now has a third brake light flush-mounted into the top of the trunk lid and features new aerodynamic wheels and finned trim rings.

VW's Vanagon comes with a more powerful standard 2.1 liter engine fuel injection and a sophisticated electronic ignition.

Even with these improvements, said Bardetti, the 1986 VW carries a less than 1 percent average price increase over comparably equipped 1985 models. The price of Volkswagen used repairs are frozen for 1986. The Golf diesel is actually less expensive than its 1985 counterpart.

Bardetti added that a new 4-wheel drive Vanagon Syncro will debut at Bardetti Volkswagen in the first quarter of 1986. It will be the first automatically engaging four-wheel-drive van in the USA. Other vehicles carrying the Syncro name will also feature 4-wheel drive traction for safety and driver control under adverse driving conditions.

Average House Price $113,000

The median price of a single-family home in the 14 cities and towns in the Lowell and Lawrence areas was $113,000 for the second quarter of 1985 according to Massachusetts Association of Realtors president, David H. Bradley.

The median price reflects the price of mobile homes, condominiums and single-famly dwellings regardless of size sold in the Lowell and Lawrence areas during the second quarter of 1985 based on a survey of Multiple Listing Service data of the Greater Lowell and Greater Lawrence Boards of Realtors conducted by the Massachusetts Association of Realtors. Half the single-family homes cost less than the median price and half cost more.

The $113,000 median price was $18,000 below the Boston area median price of $131,000 for the same period and $36,500 above the national median home price of $76,500 as reported by the National Association of Realtors.

"The high cost of housing in the Lowell and Lawrence areas relative to the national median dramatically reflects the continuing housing crisis in Massachusetts. The large number of households being formed and the relatively few housing units being constructed have sent home prices skyrocketing. This is especially bad news for first-time homebuyers and those with low-to-moderate incomes who are being forced out of the housing market," said Bradley.

According to the Massachusetts Association of Realtors, a family purchasing a $113,000 home in the Lowell-Lawrence area would need an annual income of approximately $44,500 to qualify for a 12 percent, three-year mortgage of $90,400 after a 20 percent downpayment of $22,600.

"Realtors want affordable homeownership opportunities for the citizens of our commonwealth," said Bradley. "Our communities, including those in the Lowell and Lawrence areas, must recognize the need for additional single- and multi-family construction and work toward the logical and controlled development of more housing within their borders."

REALTOR

CAPITAL GAINS TIME CHANGE

The latest tax law (1984 Tax reform Act) changed the time period for holding property for the purpose of capital gains to six months a reduction from the previous one year holding period. In general, this is not such a vital change to real estate investors because the average investors hold their properties for about seven years. However, there are a few instances where this lowered time frame could be significant.

If you are a wizard at spotting good turnaround situations, you could turn your profit over twice as fast as before. Say you bought a property that was poorly managed and needing repairs and upgrading. If you made the quick improvements and upgraded the rental management you could now resell the property in only six months (half the previous time period) to obtain capital gains treatment for your profits. The maximum rate on capital gains is only 20% and probably less for most people.

REAL ESTATE GUIDELINES

Realty U.S.A.
Schruender Real Estate

CURB APPEAL

When prospective buyers pull up in front of your home, their first impression will be crucial. Many of our customers call us from "For Sale" signs, and they're more likely to call on your home if it has a terrific front yard. If a house has peeling paint, a shaggy yard, and droopy shutters, the buyers may resist going inside. Even if they do go in, their negative first impressions could color their feelings about the rest of the house, even if the interior does meet their criteria. This is why "Curb Appeal" is so important. Before marketing your home, check the exterior paint and trim. If the house does need painting, get it done as soon as possible, and complete any exterior carpentry work that may be needed. Keep your lawn mowed and trim the shrubbery. A few flowers can also help dress up your front yard. A cared for exterior will help your home give the impression that it has been well served before buyers even set one foot inside the front door. It will make buyers feel positive about the property from the first moment they see it.

If your thinking of putting your home on the market calling Realty USA, Schruender Real Estate is a good first step. Our agents can give you good ideas about some simple fix-ups that will help your property sell quickly and for top dollar. Our phone number is 685-5000, or stop by our offices at 73 Chickering Rd. (Rtes. 125 & 133) North Andover, MA.

Proposed Road-Dam Report To Be Factor In Subdivision

By Lisa Waterman

A final engineering report on a farm road that leads to Devonshire Place, located at Blanchard and Osgood Streets, which would act as a dam for an existing farm pond and a permanent roadway, will be a deciding factor in the acceptance of the Devonshire Place subdivision by the Planning Board.

The engineering report will decide if the proposal is satisfactory to rebuild the farm road that would also act as a damn.

A consulting soils engineer was called in by Developer Steven Doherty, D.& L. Development Corp., Washington St., Methuen, at the request of the department of public works request.

A test was made to see if the soil which is composed of peat would be suitable to contain a roadway that would also serve as a dam," DPW Director Robert McQuade said.

Results from the tests would require the peat to be removed and replaced with twelve-inch layers of compacted, suitable material to make the land suitable for a roadway, according to McQuade.

The subdivision contains 25 lots on 37 acres of land. Property owned by the Raytheon Company abuts the land.

Consulting engineer Steve Stapinski of Merrimack Engineering Services, Park St., informed the Planning Board during Tuesday's public hearing, "they plan to design the subdivsion around the wetlands and create a subdivision that preserves the wetlands."

The irrigation dam located on Devonshire Drive, which would provide access to Blanchard Street into the site, would be widened to 12 by 18 feet and 24 foot shoulders would be used for sidewalks, according to Stapinski.

An engineer from Raytheon Co., Lowell St., who did not want to be indentified, informed the Planning Board. "That the two acres of land owned by the Raytheon Company contains a pond that would be an attractive nuisance to any children living in the Devonshire subdivision."

The proposed Osgood Street connection to six lots located at Towle Place, is blinded by vegetation, according to Stapinski. "We plan to remove the vegetation to allow drivers additional visability," Stapinski said. "We would then plant lower vegetation in place of the trees that would be lost."

The entrance, located off Osgood Street, has limited site distance between two curbs, according to McQuade.

The Planning Board will make a decision to accept the proposed plans for the Devonshire Place subdivision on or before Nov. 18.
